Afternoon Everyone,

Current Agenda (tentative our course as I just wanted to get this on our calendars for now and to block out resources on EPA's end): Call is to clarify CAG's questions from March 9 meeting and any prior Q&A that may still need better understanding. I know we all want to be sure all questions are completely and correctly answered to the best of our abilities. Questions that are historically repeated we'll work to check and see if they were first previously answered, and if so; is the question being restated because EPA didn't correctly understand the content/perspective of the person asking it, is there now new information that better answers the question, or is it being restated to emphasize someone's expectations and/or reaffirm validity. Also, I don't know if the call will take an entire hour but again blocked it out just in case we need the time.

Based on my discussions with Bob, CAG's comments from March 9 should be available for EPA's West Lake team on or shortly after March 25, naturally once it clears the CAG's technical committee. If anything else comes to light before the call (additional questions, clarifications or questions have been answered and need to be withdrawn) you are welcome to provide it Ben and I and we can of course discuss it at the April 1 call. If new questions, do get added to the original ones, I respectfully recommend just adding it (or them) to the rest, and resending to us so nothing gets missed.

While it is everyone's goal to get all questions confirmed and answered before the next CAG meeting, I'm sure we all understand, it going to depend on how many questions are received and the availability of the CAG's technical committee and EPA's team resources to get them fully answered. The EPA West Lake regional team supports working towards that goal but again needs to be sure and completely answer all of the CAGs questions.

Please note that we also understand that additional persons can change or be added to the technical committee as needed. Just let Ben and I know and we can either add them in the appointment or you can forward the notice for their acceptance.

Thank you or your time and I am looking forward to talking with everyone at the April 1 call,

Brad Vann, EPA RPM
